

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- 10 An instrument panel system which can accommodate different sized displays within a common instrument panel structure. The instrument panel system can accommodate different sized devices within the common instrument panel architecture without showing an empty intermediate area between the device and the instrument panel when the device received within the opening is smaller than an area of the opening.